Prof. Dr. Virgil Dalm

Prof. Dr. Dalm is a renowned physician and researcher specialising in clinical immunology and primary immunodeficiency (PID) at Erasmus University Medical Center Rotterdam. With over 10 years of experience, he focuses on identifying genetic defects underlying PIDs to develop targeted treatments. He also investigates underreported complications in PID, including skin, endocrine, neurodevelopmental, fertility, and psychiatric disorders. His recent interest lies in understanding the link between PIDs and neuropsychiatric complications. Dr. Dalm envisions leveraging genetic defects to create better treatments for PID patients.
