Dr. Mari Campbell

Dr. Mari Campbell is a consultant clinical psychologist with over twenty years of experience. Specialising in mental health and clinical health psychology, she works with individuals, couples, and families using cognitive-behavioural and systemic frameworks. At the Royal Free, Dr. Campbell leads the Psychology Service in the Department of Clinical Immunology, providing one-to-one sessions for patients with immunodeficiencies. Her research focuses on long-term outcomes, improving healthcare pathways, and the effectiveness of psychological therapy for rare diseases.
