

Prof. Lennart Hammarström

Prof. Hammarström works as a professor of clinical immunology at the Karolinska Institutet in Stockholm, Sweden. His main scientific interest is primary immunodeficiency diseases, trying to diagnose patients on a genetic level in order to allow for targeted therapy. For the past few years, he has been using large scale whole genome sequencing (WGS) to diagnose genetic diseases in newborns, thus being able to initiate treatment already before symptoms appear.

.